

Grace ABOUNDS

March 2024

From Our Interim Pastor

As I write this, we have just completed our Ash Wednesday services, First Sunday in Lent morning service and our first Lenten evening worship focused this year on The Trial of Judas – the punishment phase. I pray all of these services thus far have led you into the disciplines of Lent – prayer, fasting and almsgiving. Deeper prayer life, fasting from those things that stand in the way of a deeper relationship with Jesus and an offering of our gifts to the church as we strive to follow in the footsteps of Jesus – that's what Lent is about! Thinking that most, if not all, who read these words will already know the meaning of Lent and are already into your Lenten practices, I decided not to say more about Lent, but to share with you what I am experiencing here at Grace as I, on the second Sunday of March, will complete two years as your interim pastor.

When I arrived, Grace (and all other congregations) was just beginning to gather again in person for worship and other congregational activities following all the isolation that COVID imposed on us. Those early days of "returning to normal" or maybe "returning to a new normal" were difficult. Loss of community, loss of vision and mission confusion about current identity and purpose – all defined us. In fact, as we began early on – too early, in fact – to complete the Ministry Site Profile for the call process – the word "complacency" was chosen to describe Grace. But then, the Wake UP Team got busy. I shared with them and the congregation council what a navy admiral had shared with me when I joined the bishop's staff in North Carolina. "It literally takes three miles to turn a battle ship in the ocean," he said, "so as you think about paradigm shifts in a congregation, remember that." That's been our operating plan these past two years – turn the battle ship – move Grace from that complacency to vitality. And that is happening, dear friends, that is happening.

The ship is turning. I'd say we're a good mile into that journey and that's amazing! I invite you to open your eyes and see what's happening here at Grace. I invite you to unclench your fists and let go of whatever it is you need to let go of so that you can see – better yet – that you can join in turning the ship those last two miles. And I can't help but throw in this caution. Mitch often says, "if all you have is a hammer, then everything looks like a nail," So, another invitation! Please let go on preconceived impressions, experiences, observations – let them go and be open to how the Spirit is moving here at Grace! We are being led into a new day!

Here are a few things I see! Worship attendance is steady and with on-line streaming, growing. Johnny is training at least seven to operate our new system. That's a model for all teams and task forces as we move forward. Invite, in person, others to join your team! Julie and Jessica have brought energy to our youth program, including a Sunday school class. Word is the youth are participating! Parents, thanks for getting them here! Youth, thanks for joining in! The council at its last meeting heard a presentation on two possible stewardship programs Grace needs to consider. Energy and excitement abounded and further discussion and possible decision will come in March! The Trial of Judas is underway. An excellent cast is in place and 47 people attended that first Lenten service. One person said, "I didn't want it to end!" When has anyone last said that about a worship service!!!! And, then, my goodness, there's the work of council and now call committee as we now move intentionally into the interview process of calling a new pastor. All this is happening along with other more established ministries — backpack ministry, Manna House, kids' bucket, women's bible study, active LMM - and add to all this our preschool! What a delightful group of children and dedicated staff! Grace is alive and growing! Be still and listen – the Spirit is inviting you to join in!

Blow, Spirit, Blow –
